

Grading in Moodle

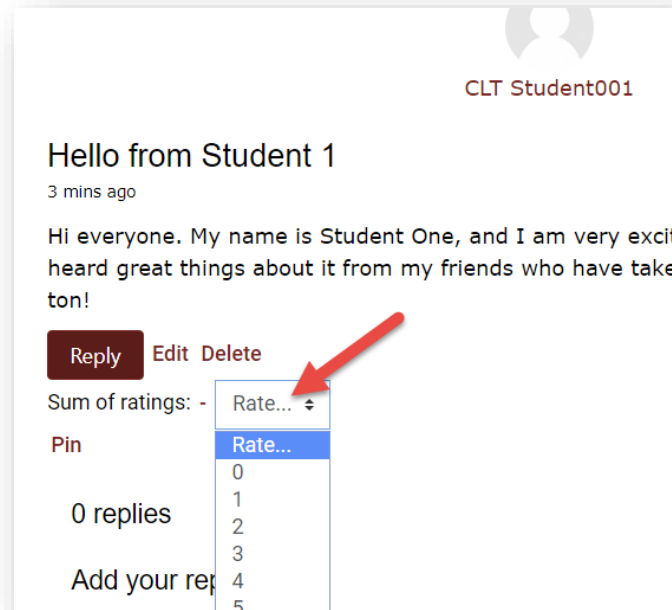

Grading items in Moodle can be done a few different ways depending on instructor preferences. This document will provide illustrations on a couple of ways to grade items, but keep in mind that other ways are possible. As long as you are able to review and grade student submissions, you can use the grading method that works best for your class. If you have questions about how to grade your items, you can feel free to contact the CLT at 682-7838 or clt@occc.edu.

Grading Open Forums

To grade advanced forums, you will need to enter the forum to see the students' posts. To read a post, select the title.

This will load the student's post, and any replies that have been made by others. If you are using the Ratings grade type, you can grade a student's post directly from the forum. To grade a post, select the score you wish to assign in the Rate: dropdown menu beneath that post.

The rating will be sent directly to the gradebook as a grade for the forum.

The Open Forum also allows the use of Advanced Grading types. If you wish to use an Advanced Grading type (Checklist, Marking Guide, or Rubric) to grade your Advanced Forum, please contact the CLT for assistance.
