Executive Summary

Overview

OCCC used the Noel Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory for the first time in the Spring Semester of 2013. Students who were enrolled in classes offered on campus were sent emails with a link to access the survey. Ten percent of the student population or 925 students completed the survey. There were a total of 112 questions including: 70 items requesting the level of importance and level of satisfaction; 10 OCCC specific items; six items asking students how they rated the College's commitment to meeting the needs of various populations, nine items regarding the importance of students' decision to enroll at the college, three overall questions and 13 demographic questions.

Areas to Celebrate

The results showed that 69 of the 70 satisfaction questions were statistically significantly higher than the national ratings at the .001 level. Of the top ten satisfaction rated items at OCCC, all were above 6.20 on a seven point scale with computer labs are adequate and accessible rated the highest at 6.37. Of the list of ten items which had the smallest gaps between the students' level of importance and their level of satisfaction, the gaps ranged between 0.02 and 0.17. The smaller the gap between the student's selection of importance level and satisfaction level, the more satisfied the student is with the item. Child care availability on campus recorded the lowest gap.

The largest differences between the levels of satisfaction at OCCC compared to the national level of satisfaction were quite significant – most on the positive side. The top differences ranged from a 1.07 to a 0.68 with student parking recording the largest difference. Even though students express their concerns about parking on campus, they are rating their level of satisfaction with parking significantly higher than others outside of the College who have completed this survey.

Noel Levitz collapsed most of the survey questions into 12 major categories which included the 70 importance/satisfaction questions as well as the six satisfaction questions regarding the College's commitment to meeting the needs of various student populations. The highest student-rated category based on their level of satisfaction was academic services which were comprised of the library, tutoring, study areas etc. This item recorded a satisfaction rating of 6.15.

There were ten questions OCCC developed using the level of importance and satisfaction ratings. The two items with the smallest gap between their level of importance and satisfaction included the use of online tools to add or drop classes and the live chat and email academic advisement services.

There were six items which asked student's how satisfied they were that the campus demonstrated a commitment to meeting the needs of various student populations. All six were statistically significantly higher than the national level of satisfaction. These satisfaction items were also rated very high on a seven point scale with the low being 5.98 for commuters to a high of 6.17 for students with disabilities.

When asked about what factors generated their decision to attend OCCC, students overwhelmingly chose cost as their number one factor followed by financial aid. Both of these levels of importance were higher than the national levels.

The ratings of how the College experience met student's expectations were higher than the national results with the average of 5.21 at OCCC on a seven point scale compared to 4.82 at the national level. Students' overall satisfaction with their experience was 5.93 compared to 5.46 at the national level. Finally, when asked whether they would enroll again at OCCC if they had an opportunity to do it over, students rated this item 6.33 compared to the national rating of 5.72.

Upon comparison of the Noel Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory (SSI) with the ACT Student Opinion Survey (SOS), there were nine items which were eight or more points higher which is important when using a scale of 1 to 100. [This scale was used because the SSI used a seven-point scale and the SOS used a five-point scale.]

Areas for Potential Further Review

At OCCC, of the top five items which had the largest gaps between the level of importance and the level of satisfaction, three of them included academic advisors. These three items included

- My academic advisor is concerned about my success as an individual
- My academic advisor is approachable (The only item on the 70 questions which was not statistically significantly higher than the national satisfaction rating was "my academic advisor is approachable.")
- My academic advisor helps me set goals to work toward
- Financial aid counselors are helpful
- Students are notified early in the term if they are doing poorly in a class

The five areas with the lowest level of satisfaction included: child care is available on campus, I am notified early if doing poorly in my classes, academic advisor is concerned about my success, academic advisor helps me set goals, and financial aid counselors are helpful.

Within the collapsed 12 categories, the lowest student-rated category based on their level of satisfaction was advising/counseling comprised primarily of academic advisor questions. This item recorded a satisfaction rating of 5.54.

Of the College's ten questions that were added to the survey, two questions had relatively large gaps between the level of importance and the level of satisfaction. The first item was Moodle at OCCC is easy to access and use and the second item was meeting with my faculty advisor helps me stay on track toward my degree both with gaps of 0.88.

When comparing the results of the SSI to the SOS, there was one item which registered an eight-point negative difference which was Veterans' services.

Noel Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory

INTRODUCTION

The ACT Student Opinion survey was administered at Oklahoma City Community College every other year from 1996 through 2012. However, ACT informed the College at the end of FY2012 that it would no longer offer this survey. Therefore, the Office of Institutional Research staff reviewed various surveys available for this type of assessment with the goals of finding an instrument with similar questions, applicable to a 2-year college environment and online. Several survey instruments were identified and each of the question sets were compared to the ACT Student Opinion survey. A small team of Enrollment and Student Services Staff and Academic Affairs staff met to discuss the various options. After the discussion, it was determined that the Noel Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory most closely fit the College's needs. The college used the Community/Junior/Technical College Form A survey. There were 192 colleges within the national survey pool with 191,857 total student records Fall 2009 through spring 2012. The plan for the results of this survey will be used to celebrate the accomplishments of the various departments, identify potential areas of improvement, conduct further research, and if necessary make changes to the various areas across campus.

METHODOLOGY

In the Spring Semester of 2013 (April 13 through April 27), OCCC conducted the Noel Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory. The survey was administered online. Prior to the survey, faculty received several emails and announcements that the survey would be sent to their students and that they should be reminding their students to complete the survey. Three emails were sent to all students who were enrolled in at least one class which was offered on campus. Students who were taking solely online courses or were at another location were not surveyed.

LIMITATIONS

One of the primary limitations is that this was the first year the College administered the survey through an email to all on campus students. In prior years the survey was conducted in the classroom with each faculty member receiving a packet to hand out. Results were tracked to send out reminders to faculty who had not sent back their packets.

RESULTS

There were 925 surveys completed by the students. The response represented 10% of those who were surveyed. This percent response represented a greater number of students at the college. In the previous year we had an 8% response rate. There were 70 questions in which students had an opportunity to evaluate their level of importance and satisfaction with various services or attributes. Ten questions were developed by OCCC. Six questions related to the commitment the College had to various accommodations to special needs or student attributes. Nine questions reviewed the importance of various factors in the student's decision to enroll. The final three questions asked about the student's college experience, overall satisfaction and if they had to do it all over would they enroll in the college again. There were also 13 demographic questions.

OCCC RESULTS COMPARED TO THE NATIONAL RESULTS

Overall Satisfaction of the 70 Rated Questions

The satisfaction results of 69 of the 70 questions asked of the OCCC students were statistically significantly positive compared to the national results. There was only one that was not statistically higher but was above the national rating by 0.03 which was “my academic advisor is approachable.” The detailed results are available in Appendix B. The sections which follow summarize the data.

Top Ten Satisfaction Differences between OCCC and National Results

The chart below compares the top ten items based on the largest differences between OCCC student level of satisfaction compared to the national student level of satisfaction. All ten of the ratings by OCCC students were statistically significantly higher than the national ratings. Even though the student parking space was among the ten lowest rated satisfaction items, it was significantly higher than the national rating and recorded the largest difference between OCCC level of satisfaction and the National student rate of satisfaction.

Institutional Summary by Twelve Categories

The institutional summary provides a twelve-item summary of the 70 importance/satisfaction questions as well as the six satisfaction questions regarding the college's commitment to meeting the needs of various student populations. (Appendix C for the detail) The chart is presented in terms of the highest level of OCCC's student satisfaction ratings. When comparing OCCC student level of satisfaction to the national student level of satisfaction, all twelve items were statistically significantly positive. The highest satisfaction rated item of 6.15 was academic services which included the labs, study areas, library, etc. This item for OCCC students also had the lowest gap between the level of importance and the level of satisfaction. The lowest satisfaction rated item of 5.54 was academic advising/counseling which was primarily comprised of academic advisor questions. More importantly the gap between the student's level of importance and level of satisfaction for academic advising/counseling was 0.94 which was the highest of any of the OCCC gaps within the twelve categories.

Satisfaction with Institution's Commitment to Various Populations

There were six items which asked student's how satisfied they were that the campus demonstrates a commitment to meeting the needs of various student populations. All six items for the College were statistically significantly above the national satisfaction rates. The item on students with disabilities was the highest rated item although the range in responses was quite close with 6.17 for the highest to 5.98 the lowest for commuters. By using a seven point scale, it is evident that students agree that OCCC is committed to these various populations.

Importance Factors in Deciding to Enroll Here

There were nine questions which asked students to determine how important certain factors were in their decision to enroll at the college. All but one, opportunity to play sports, was more important to OCCC students than students in the national comparison group. The cost was the highest rated area of importance with a 6.41 rate out of 7 points.

	OCCC Importance	National Importance	Diff
1. Cost as factor in decision to enroll.	6.41	6.31	0.10
2. Financial aid as factor in decision to enroll.	6.18	6.03	0.15

9. Opportunity to play sports as factor in decision to enroll.	3.27	3.53	-0.26

Three Overall Questions

There were three overall questions asked of the students. The first question asked how the students' college experience met their expectations. On a scale of 1 to 7, the average for the college was 5.21 which was 0.39 points higher than the national level. Below is a table of the results.

	OCCC	National	Mean Difference

On a scale of 1 to 7, the average for the college was 5.93 which was 0.47 points higher than the national level of satisfaction. Below is the distribution of the various responses. Note that the very satisfied response rate for the College was 35% compared to 20% for the national student population.

OCCC DATA ONLY

Overview

The review of OCCC data only provides a slightly different perspective of the results than when the data was compared to the national. The College's results in terms of the level of satisfaction continues to shine, however, there are some items in which there are large differences between the level of importance and the level of satisfaction. If there are some types of changes we could implement to close these gaps, student persistence, retention and graduation could be impacted.

OCCC Top Ten Questions of Satisfaction

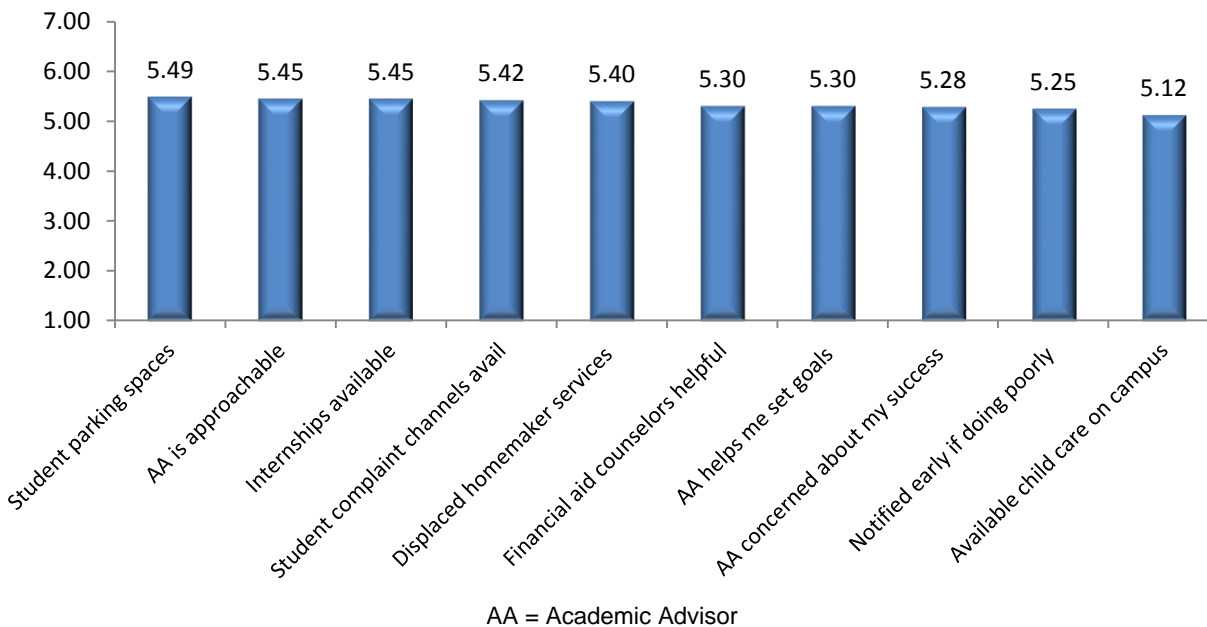

The top ten areas of satisfaction appear below. All ten items were statistically significantly higher than the national norm. The scale used in this survey was 1=not satisfied at all to 7=very satisfied. Each of the top ten were above 6.0 which is a positive reflection of how the students view the College.

OCCC Lowest Ten Questions of Satisfaction

The ten lowest rated satisfaction questions are identified in the chart on the following page. Nine of the ten items were statistically significantly higher than the national level of satisfaction. The only item that was not statistically higher was the question asking if academic advisors are approachable.

Lowest 10 Satisfaction Rated Items

OSCC Smallest Ten Performance Gaps

When a student identifies a level of satisfaction that is close to how he/she rated the importance of that question, the results indicate that overall the student is satisfied with the service characteristics. The smallest gap was the availability of child care facilities on campus with a gap of 0.02. This gap was followed by a sufficient number of study areas and the campus is well-maintained at 0.09.

	OSCC
	Importance	Satisfaction	Performance Gap
1. Bookstore staff are helpful.	6.37	6.20	0.17
2. Computer labs are adequate and accessible.	6.53	6.37	0.16
3. This institution has a good reputation within the community.	6.39	6.24	0.15
4. Personnel in the Veterans' Services programs are helpful.	5.82	5.69	0.13
5. I generally know what's happening on campus.	5.96	5.83	0.13
6. Library staff are helpful and approachable.	6.35	6.22	0.13
7. Most students feel a sense of belonging here.	5.89	5.76	0.13
8. There are a sufficient number of study areas on campus.	6.35	6.26	0.09
9. On the whole, the campus is well-maintained.	6.46	6.37	0.09
10. Child care facilities are available on campus.	5.14	5.12	0.02

OSCC Largest Ten Performance Gaps

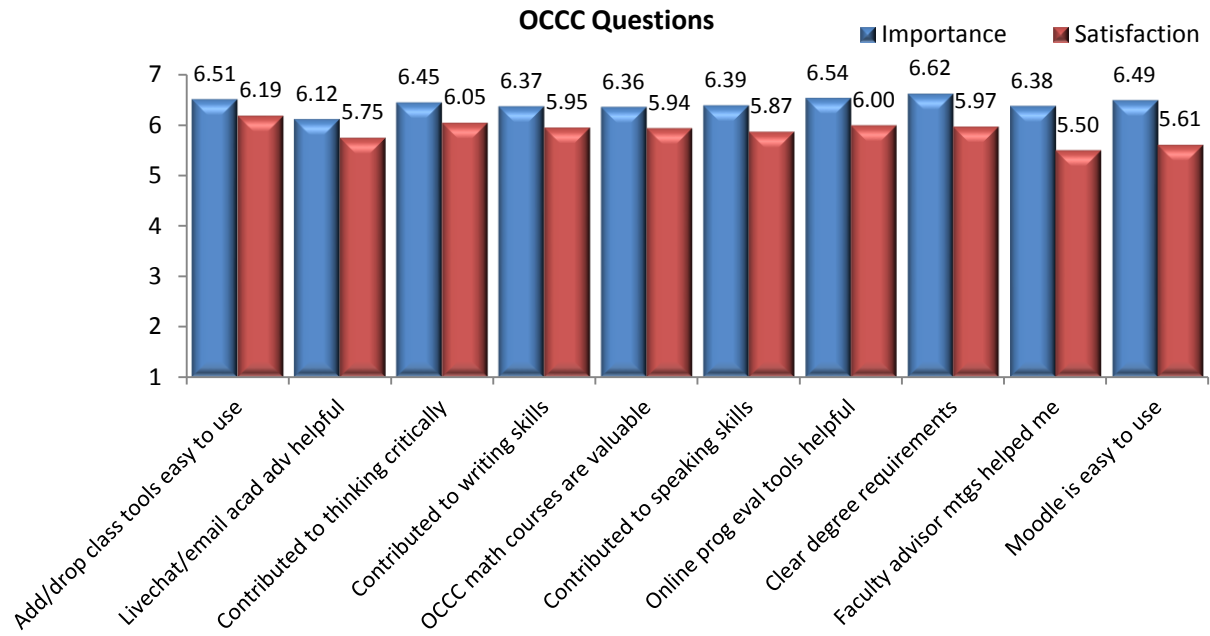

The largest performance gaps are significant because the results provide an insight into the student's expectations. The level of importance is based on a 1-7 point scale with 1=not important at all and 7=very important. Similarly, the level of satisfaction is based on a 1-7 point scale with 1=not at all satisfied and 7=very satisfied. The larger the gap, the more important it is to address what could be causing the difference. The item which had the largest gap was that “financial aid counselors are helpful” followed closely by “students are notified early in the term if they are doing poorly in a class,” and “my academic advisor is concerned about my success as an individual.” Note that the question regarding the approachability of academic advisors is in the fourth highest rated gap which reinforces the previously stated satisfaction results.

	OCCC
	Importance	Satisfaction	Performance Gap
1. Financial aid counselors are helpful.	6.45	5.30	1.15
2. Students are notified early in the term if they are doing poorly in a class.	6.39	5.25	1.14
3. My academic advisor is concerned about my success as an individual.	6.41	5.28	1.13
4. My academic advisor is approachable.	6.50	5.45	1.05
5. My academic advisor helps me set goals to work toward.	6.34	5.30	1.04
6. My academic advisor is knowledgeable about the transfer requirements of other schools.	6.52	5.53	0.99
7. My academic advisor is knowledgeable about my program requirements.	6.60	5.63	0.97
8. The amount of student parking space on campus is adequate.	6.44	5.49	0.95
9. Faculty provide timely feedback about student progress in a course.	6.59	5.68	0.91
10. Financial aid awards are announced to students in time to be helpful in college planning.	6.45	5.56	0.89

OCCC Questions

There were ten campus questions which the College developed for the survey. The ratings of importance as well as the level of satisfaction were quite high. The smallest gaps between the level of importance and satisfaction were the add/drop class tools were easy to use and the live chat/email academic advisement services were helpful. There were two items that had relatively large gaps. These two items were Moodle at OCCC is easy to access and use, as well as meeting with my faculty advisor helps me stay on track toward my degree (both had 0.88 gap). These two items may need further attention.

Noel Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory vs ACT Student Opinion Survey Results

One of the primary reasons why OCCC chose to administer the Noel Levitz Student Satisfaction Inventory (SSI) when the ACT Student Opinion Survey (SOS) was no longer available was because there were similar questions on this survey. There were 17 items which were common to both surveys. To compare the two surveys it was necessary to convert the results to a scale of 100 because the SSI had a seven-point scale and the SOS had a five-point scale.

Generally, when reviewing results on a 100 point scale, the items that would be of interest would be those which were plus or minus eight points. As can be viewed in the chart below there were nine items in which the SSI results were 8 points or higher than the SOS survey results and only one that was 8 points lower. The other seven rated items were comparatively the same.

Item	SOS 2012	SSI 2013	Difference
1. College Bookstore	71	87	16
2. Availability of courses	69	83	14
3. Billing	70	84	14
4. Variety of courses offered	78	90	12
5. Instructor out of class availability	73	85	12
6. Concern for the individual	68	79	11
7. Condition of the campus	79	90	11
8. Study areas	79	88	9
9. Lab facilities	76	84	8
10. Career services	72	79	7
11. Quality of instruction	76	83	6
12. Library services	85	88	3
13. College orientation	79	82	3
14. Financial aid services	69	72	3
15. OCCC in general	80	82	2
16. Tutorial services	81	83	2
17. Veterans' services	86	78	-8

CONCLUSIONS

Overall the College results when compared to the national results were very positive with the satisfaction of 69 of the 70 questions at a statistically significantly higher rate than the national satisfaction rate. Of the twelve categories identified by Noel Levitz, the highest student-rated category based on their level of satisfaction was academic services which were comprised of the library, tutoring, study areas etc. When comparing OCCC developed questions, two items with the smallest gap between their level of importance and satisfaction included the use of online tools to add or drop classes as well as the live chat and email academic advisement services are helpful. The six items regarding student satisfaction with how the campus demonstrated a commitment to meeting the needs of various student populations were all statistically significantly higher than the national level of satisfaction. Students were very satisfied with the College overall and would enroll here if they had to do it all over again.

Perhaps one of the more interesting results was that one of the largest positive differences between the levels of satisfaction at OCCC compared to the National level of satisfaction was student parking. Even though students express their concerns about parking on campus, they rated their level of satisfaction with parking significantly higher than others outside of the College who have completed this survey.

Some of the areas College staff may want to explore further include academic advising, students' notification if they are doing poorly in class, financial aid counselor help, and access to Moodle.
